RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

I have a vast experience participating as a research assistant in several international (and cross-national) research projects. These experiences have included developing the following (non-exhaustive) list of tasks and associated skills:

- Conducting literature reviews and case-study analyses on relevant project-related topics, as well as document analyses from policy briefs, school manuals, and other relevant materials.
- Coordinating, conducting, cleaning and analyzing quantitative (mainly, survey) data, including the logistics related to applying sampling methods (e.g. random sampling, random route, RDS, etc.).

- Coordinating, conducting, cleaning and analyzing qualitative data from in-depth interviews, field notes, and focus groups within qualitative, multi- and mixed-methods research designs.
- Designing (and pre-testing) questionnaires, and interview and focus group protocols, as well as all materials (e.g. information sheets, infographics, social media) required for preparing fieldwork.
- Reporting project results at project meetings and international conferences, and in project (and policy) reports and other deliverables, and in books and articles in peer-reviewed journals.
- Additional project management tasks, including administering funds, managing teams of survey enumerators and interviewers, organizing events/meetings, and ethics and data quality control.

- 2017-2018 The Janaagraha-Brown India Citizenship Index Study (JB-CI).
Research Assistant. Principal Investigator: Patrick Heller, Brown University.
